

The Protector's Paw

Here's the male counterpart to the healer's paw: the protector's paw. Like the healer's paw, it is a stylized depiction of the palmar pads on the forepaw, but male rather than female. Where the healer's paw is used like the caduceus or red cross, the protector's paw is analogous to a police badge, though it's not worn as a literal badge. That would be rather painful. It's found on buildings and vehicles.
